PROMPT ACTION NEEDED.

It is conceded by all thoughtful and serious minded citizens of the state that no longer is there necessity to argue that a budget system is needed. It is, however, still necessary to direct attention to the fact that Pennsylvania is one of the two states which has no mandatory budget system.

Although Governor Pinchot has voluntarily prepared a budget and presented it to the Legislature, and has announced his intention of following that policy during his administration, the procedure has not been incorporated in the fundamental law of the state. It is perhaps too sanguine a view to hold that public opinion will not permit its abandonment. But precedent is not always binding even when of long standing.
It is conceivable that some future governor may not feel himself to be obliged to follow Governor Pinchot's policy, and some future Legislature may slip back into the oldtime business-like methods of making appropriations.

It becomes necessary, therefore,
that a budget system be written into the Constitution so that it will be mandatory upon future governors and legislatures. To accomplish this purpose Senator Woodward has introduced a joint resolution to amend the Constitution to establish an executive budget, without limiting the powers of the Legislature to use its free judgment in making appropriations. A similar resolution has been introduced in the House by Representative Stange. This resolution lies in committee. The House resolution is making progress but there is the possibility that the General Assembly
may adjourn before either resolution reaches the governor.

Except in a few minds to whom the thought of progress of any kind is abhorrent, there is no real opposition to a budget. Inertia and indifference are its greatest foes. It therefore behooves civic groups, public-spirited citizens, business men, organizations and taxpayers generally who are interested in the economical administration of public affairs, to take prompt action. Otherwise, two more years will be lost before the budget system can be established as part of the Constitution. Appeal should be made to every member of the General Assembly urging action on these resolutions before April 20 which may be the date of adjournment of the present session.

A citizen who sits in the bleachers these bleachers and sees the finest of the ninth inning is entitled to admission to the inner circles of fandom.

Announcement of the preparation of graduation day programs is a better
sign of the approach of real spring weather than the exhibits the weatherman is offering at this time.

The games of youth will soon begin to feature the dance marathons.

Courtesy Wins
In Business

Acorns of courtesy in business usually develop into oaks of financial return. This is because people are appreciative of courtesy in business,
though they themselves may lack it.
Even the big corporations, called so often not so many years ago, are requiring of all their officers and other employees that they be courteous in their attitude to the public—meaning an. No longer do wise corporation officials assume "the public belittled" attitude. Applying one of the popular expressions of the times,
"them days are gone forever." Some of the greatest diplomats of the present time are not in the employ of the governments of the world, but are the directors of the public relations departments of big corporations.

Retail stores doing business with the general public usually assume the attitude that the customer is always right in every controversy. Some unthinking, overbearing persons may take advantage of such a liberal policy, but most people respond to such courtesy and not only continue their own patronage, but get others to patronize such stores. The larger the store, the more courtesy may be found therein. The large business is variably the result of good values

given with due courtesy.

The successful salesman practices
courtesy to win orders. He counts his prospects until they become customers and he keeps on being courteous to retain their good-will. Not only the salesman, but all persons connected with the business—from the proprietor to the delivery boy, and even the porter—must realize that courtesy in business is an asset, while discourtesy is a liability.

The trouble with the salesman, as the trouble with many another man, is that he sometimes forgets to be courteous to those who are neither prospects nor customers. There is the real test of courtesy. Real courtesy is possessed by men and women
if they practice it when and where they are not expecting something of material value in return.

FIRE DAMAGES MOUNT PLEASANT GROCERY STORE

Burning Meat Causes Dense Smoke and Masks Are Necessary.

BUILDING SUFFERS LITTLE

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, April 18.—Last evening about 10:50 o'clock Roy L. Crosby of Smithburg street looked out his upstairs window and saw a blaze in the rear of the upper A. and P. store, Main street. He went to the store, Jr., to the grocery building and an alarm was sounded and in only a few minutes the flames were on the scene. The flames were soon extinguished. The fire had started among the smoked meats and filled the room with smoke. Smoke masks were put on and the firemen forced their way in turning the water in as they went. The entire stock was damaged by smoke and water. The manager of the store, H. C. Granger, is away on his wedding trip and the building manager is in his place. The building, which is not much damaged, is owned by the Zimmerman estate. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison have just moved from College avenue to the flat above the store and their household goods were damaged by smoke and water.

The intense heat broke the large plate glass window in the front. Falling to pieces struck Chief Arthur Geartman on the head, causing a laceration.

Concert for Fire Department.

A concert was given in the Grand Opera House for the benefit of the fire department by Catherine M. Finch, assisted by Miss Nell Sheets of Steubenville, Ohio. Miss Lena Sarver was the accompanist. On the program were numbers by Miss Sheets and Mrs. Finch, a duet by Misses Sheets and Finch, assisted by Paul Miller and former Dutchholder, mandolin; whistling solos by Miss Jennie Becker; recitation, Lawrence Fox, assisted by Samuel Levinson.

Miss Grader Hostess.
Miss Mary Malinda Grader entertained 25 friends at a party at her Main street home Monday evening. Guests were present from Connelville, Scottdale, Armo, Latrobeville and Mount Pleasant. Games were played and refreshments served.

Grader Gets String.
Frank Grader Monday went to Davisburg for the opening of the fishing season and at noon caught 12 good-sized trout.

New Hospital Nurse.

Miss Margaret Stafford has been signed as dispensary nurse and has taken up her duties at the Memorial Hospital. Miss Stafford has recently been employed at the Brownsville Hospital.

Mrs. Oscar Ruder Injured.

Mrs. Oscar Ruder of College avenue fell down her cellar steps yesterday and suffered an injury to her arm, hand and side. It was thought at first that she had suffered a fracture of the arm.

STATE COLLEGE BUREAU LAYS OUT IDEAL HOME ACRE

By Associated Press.

INDIANA, Pa., April 18.—What is described as an ideal farm home fruit garden, planned to meet future needs, has been laid out by the agricultural extension service of Pennsylvania State College. The plan was announced through the Indiana County Farm Bureau.

The farm home acre of fruit is to be most useful, according to the experts, should contain apple, pear, quince, cherry, plum and peach trees; grape vines, currant and gooseberry bushes, red and black raspberry plants, blackberry and strawberry plants. The varieties would vary with the taste of the planter and also with the section of the state in which the fruit acre is grown.

Varieties selected as probably fulfilling most nearly the requirements for the average Pennsylvania farm include 14 apple trees and ten peach trees. One year medium peach trees should be planted. Other fruit trees should be two year medium size or one year largest size. The acre also would include four cherry trees, two pear trees, seven plum trees, one quince, 48 raspberries, 24 blackberries, 12 currants, six gooseberries, four grape vines and 36 strawberries. Such a garden would cost, it is estimated $25 to $33.

NEW SERUM CURES 14 OF DIABETES IN PITTSBURGH

Used With Great Success at Presbyterian Hospital,
Physician Says.

Large number of cases at the Presbyterian Hospital and the results are uniformly successful.

"Virtually all of the patients treated have returned home and to their former occupations, having gained in weight and strength. It is essential for the patient to take the treatment until the condition is so improved that they can get along without medicine. The new discovery is the greatest made in the medical profession in many years."

PERSONS IN COMA REVIVED

PITTSBURGH, April 18.—Fourteen men, women and children in the Presbyterian District have been partly cured of diabetes by the use of insulin, a recently discovered serum, in treatments at the Presbyterian Hospital, where its use was started three months ago. One patient, in diabetes coma and pronounced incurable, was restored to consciousness 12 hours after being admitted to the hospital.

These statements were made by a member of the Presbyterian Hospital staff after an announcement in New York Sunday of the successful use of the serum there.

The serum was discovered last August by Dr. E. C. Banting in Toronto. Some of the preparation was distributed to six of the leading hospitals in the United States to ascertain its clinical value. Permission to use it was granted the Presbyterian Hospital on request.

"Insulin is the specific remedy for the disease and, used with the proper diet, will set patients straight; will return the sugar blood to a normal percentage; will so elevate patient's ability to digest food that they will increase their weight; in some cases to a remarkable degree," the doctor declared.

"When a patient has gone into a diabetic coma, whereas formerly all such patients died, they now can be returned to consciousness within 24 hours. Insulin has been used in a

Snaps Convenient on the Kiddies' Hair Bows

The snap or hook and eye, which this season has added the clever woman to transform one hat by using several trimmings, and to make one dress change its looks and charm in a second by the simple exchange of girdle or trimmings of ribbon, is now appearing on the hair bows for little girls. The hook and eye or the snap, may be attached to the ribbon where it meets in the back under the hair of the curly-headed child or under the bow where it is well hidden. The snap-on hair band saves the hair of the child which often catches in the knot and also prolongs the life of the ribbon by saving the untidy messiness that tying and untying produces.

Motorists Complain Of Glass on Streets

Autoists have made complaints in the past few days, about glass which has been broken in the streets. At several points bottles have been smashed on the street surfaces, either accidentally or by thoughtless children.

Tires of automobile suffer by running over the bits of glass. Even though the punctures do not occur immediately the glass is picked up and it works through the rubber casing in time.

Tennis Association Heads Will Meet on Grounds at 6:30 O'clock This Evening

Executive Committee to Determine What Repairs
Are to Be Made.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS

By James M. Driscoll
The Connellsville Tennis Association's executive committee will meet at the courts at 6:30 o'clock this evening to look the grounds over and determine what new material is needed this year to put the surface in playing shape as early as possible.

New wire will have to be purchased for almost the total distance around the court and some other matters are to be decided.

The grounds superintendent this year will be C. A. Port. He will have charge of the courts and will direct the upkeep of them. Not used last season are ready to be put up again and there are sufficient benches to take care of members not playing and onlookers.

It is believed that within another week the weather will likely be favorable to working on the surface. Last year the season "heavens" were on the courts by the end of April and the members do not mean to lose any time this season.

Lion Tamers Will Play Scholastics Here on Friday

The Lion Tamers' basketball team has arranged a game with the Uniontown Scholastics for Friday evening at the High School. The Lion Tamers recently defeated the St. Vincent club of Lebanon, and although it is late in the season and that game was expected to be the final one of the year the Uniontown aggregation has been signed.

"Pat" Kennedy of Uniontown is handling the affairs of the school. He is known to many local people. Fredrick Rush is handling the Lion Tamers.

"Doc" Simon Defends Faculty Manager Plan

At three there have been remarks among sport fans who follow High School activities here to the effect that the student managers should have a greater voice in the perfecting of schedules and incurring of expenditures. Such matters are handled by a faculty manager and a strong argument in favor of such a method is set forth by "Doc" Simon, sporting editor of the Johnstown Democrat, commenting on the decision to give a faculty manager full control at Greensburg. He says:

"The word from Greensburg now is to the effect that the Westmoreland county school authorities have decided to add a faculty manager of athletics to the high school. The local school has a faculty manager and he has proved to be very satisfactory and indeed, a very valuable asset to the athletic personnel of the school. Student managers are all right for games, but they cannot use the judgment that a good faculty manager can. Greensburg evidently is peevish by her mistakes in the past. Last year the school was forced to bring poor teams to Greensburg and pay them very high guarantees for football games. This could have been avoided with a faculty manager. One must always pay for knowledge."

PITTSBURG PIRATES OPEN SEASON WITH VICTORY OVER CUBS

CHICAGO, April 18.—The Pittsburgh Pirates opened the season yesterday by a wonderful victory over the Chicago Cubs. The box score shows a 3-2 battle in favor of the "Bucs" in spite of the fact that the team scored only three hits and had two errors chalked up against it while Chicago got eight baggies and had only a single error.

Morrison worked the entire game for the Corsairs. The Pittsburgh runs came in the fourth inning when Grimm smacked a double to right with the bases filled and two out. When he endeavored to stretch it into a triple he was retired at third but everyone had scored.

It is estimated that 34,000 persons saw the contest. It was the largest crowd on record. The stands had been enlarged to twice their former seating capacity but when the game began, the crowd was standing three and four deep.

ACES ARE AS COMMON AS BIRDIES IN GOLF

More Than 1,200 "Ones" Reported During 1922 Season—Chicago Leads With 52.

More than 1,200 holes were made in one stroke by golfers during the season of 1922, according to statistics compiled by W. C. Sherwood of Newark, Ohio, who in 1921 formed the Hole in One club for those who perform the feat. The figures as made public show that the aces were scattered over the country, although Chicago won first place with 52, including three cuckoos made by women.

The figures more than doubled the 600 aces reported for the first year of the club. Strange as it may seem all the aces came from the ranks of ordinary players, stars seldom bolting from the tee. In fact, Harry Vardon and Chick Evans, known as two of the world's most accurate golfers, have never made a cuckoo, although each has played probably 100,000 holes.

Experience has shown that the cuckoo is largely due to luck, although the golfer must play the ball straight the required distance. A number of holes more than 250 yards long were made in one last season, but the record for a tournament was set by Ned Alfts of Milwaukee, who scored an ace on a 300-yard hole at Flossmoor club, Chicago, several years ago in the western amateur championship.

Among the cities reporting the most aces for 1922 are: Chicago, 52; New York, 33; San Francisco, 24; Kansas City, 16; Omaha, 14; Cleveland, 12; Pittsburgh, 9.

Abraham and Tutankhamen

"With the civilized world still amazed at the tangible evidences of 3,300 years ago found in Tutankhamen's tomb, some dispatches telling how the time line of recorded history even now is being pushed farther back in Mesopotamia," says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

"Digging into the ruins at El-Mukatar really means probing the remains of 'Ur of the Chaldeans,' home city of Abraham and later capital of Nebuchadnezzar, Napoleon of Babylon.

Back to Genesis XI.

"News reports tell of a house, just uncovered, thought to be 5,000 years old. This pick and the shovel already have carried secular history to the period of the eleventh chapter of Genesis, have found evidence to reconstruct the daily life of the times of Abraham, and have revealed the essential differences of customs in the Tigris-Euphrates delta from those of Tutankhamen's time along the Nile.

"The familiar story of the tower of Babel gives the clue to one such difference. You will recall how the children of Noah, in the Bible narrative, said to one another, 'Let us build us a city, and a tower.'

"The temple of Egypt had a succession of chambers on the ground level; a characteristic of a Babylonian temple were its chambers arranged vertically, each successive story being a little smaller than the one beneath. In modern parlance, Egyptians tended toward bungalow architecture; the Babylonians had the first skyscrapers.

"One, then, may picture Babylon of Abraham's time as a land dotted with busy towns, each walled around with brick, and having a tower as pretentious as it could afford.

"Rooms like Pullman Cars. "The writer of Genesis makes another significant statement when he records that these early Semitic peoples 'had brick for stone, and slime they had for mortar.' There being no stone in this region the use of brick was universal, and this absence of both stone and wood had a marked influence upon the dwellings. Roof-bosses were scarce, hence the rooms were long and narrow, even in the palace of the city's greatest king, which usually adjoined the tower.

"Politically, Babylon was not yet a nation. Ur, Umma and Lagash were city-states comparable in their pride and prowess to Florence, Venice and Milan of medieval Europe.

"How they came to clash is easily understood by nothing their plan. In the center were tower and palace, around those were dwellings, and this cluster of buildings was flanked by cultivated land. Beyond this cultivated belt was the pasture land, netted with irrigation canals, always held in common. As the towns grew and more grazing land was needed trouble arose. And there was a strife between the herdsman of Abraham's cattle and the herdsman of Lot's cattle.

Contrast to Egyptian Life.

"The contrast between this town life period of Babylon and the Empire of Egypt was as great as that between our own New England communities of the mid-eighteenth century and the royal splendor of France under Louis XIV.

"This 'small town' period of Babylonian disappeared, however, with the conquests of Sargon, King of Akkad (not the Assyrian) who ruled nearly 2,500 years before Tutankhamen was interred.

"Further explorations among the remains of the city of Abraham will be secondary to the greatest single find in this region—the code of Hammurabi. This scholarly king ruled in Babylon about 2,300 B. C., and the laws he codified are proof of a high civilization built up through many centuries before his time.

"While Hammurabi supervised, 'Raids on gay road-house parties were common in those days. Wine selling was regulated and the enforcement was put squarely up to the ruler. One section of the code provided, 'If a wine merchant has allowed riotous characters to assemble in his house, and those riotous characters (slaves) has not seized and driven to the palace, that wine merchant shall be put to death.'

"A maid might sue for breach of promise; a landholder had to pay a heavier tax if he did not cultivate his allotment; guardians were provided for estates of widows and orphans.

"Mounds and occasional masses of brick work laid bare by winter rains, and ditches which hint at the canals of an elaborate irrigation system, are the only surface traces left in lower Mesopotamia today of this splendid civilization.

"One puts to himself many questions as he gazes at these slight visible vestiges of a people of whom James H. H. W. wrote, 'In Babylonian life in Abraham's time was practically as thoroughly organized and as carefully regulated as it is in our own.'

Abe Martin Says:

"Who remembers th' ole, dusty, open bin grocery where we used t' eat 15 cents worth o' dried peaches, while we was buyin' a 10-cent can o' sardines?"

ABE gets off some "good ones." The day of the "cracker-barrel" type of store is passing—the "ole dusty bin grocery" with its open style of displaying goods carelessly.

Keystone Grocery Stores offer a contrast.

The economical and scientific distribution of groceries and food-stuffs has been the study of the Keystone organization since its inception.

A Keystone Store is a bright, cheerful place in which to buy—where the spirit of willing, helpful service prevails.

The varnished shelves free from dust and dirt are orderly arrayed with nationally known brands of groceries, all plainly marked with price tickets.

The manager and clerks believe in the religion of cleanliness and it is reflected in the store's appearance.

Yes, the "ole, dusty open-bin grocery" is passing and in its stead appears the Keystone Store.

The Purpose of Every Keystone Store

Keystone Grocery Stores are clean, cheerful, pleasant places in which to buy, supplying the finest nationally known standard groceries and food-stuffs at prices from 15% to 15% less than the old-fashioned independent grocer. This is done by buying in carload lots direct from the sources of supply, thus eliminating all middle profits. Buy everything at Keystone Stores and bank the difference.

Why the French Need Coal

In a recent address before the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations R. M. Bryan, associate editor of the Black Diamond, related the impressions he gained from an inspection of the Lens mining district, which explains why the French are so sorely in need of coal today. Mr. Bryan's address was, in brief, as follows:

"Here was one of the most prosperous mining districts in France. The Germans captured this section in the fall of 1914. The Lens concession included a brand new modern steel mill, with blast furnaces, coke ovens, and all the appurtenances of a modern steel-making plant.

"In the city of Lens there lived, prior to the war, 40,000 persons. In the adjoining villages and towns, 30,000 more persons had their homes. The Lens mines were worked by the Germans until they found it expedient in the fall of 1918 to get back toward the Flanders.

"Even, inasmuch as they were evacuating, there was no military or other necessity for the destruction of the mining properties. There could be only one purpose: to cripple France's industrial life; for upon her coal mines depended her blast furnaces and her steel-making industry, as well as all the industrial life of the nation.

"The destruction that I saw at Lens was the most diabolical that I have ever witnessed. The plants were most modern. They had been built at an enormous cost. They had been built to endure. Despite an impression that exists in this country in some quarters, that certain Frenchmen are punks, and that they lack in engineering as well as all other forms of intelligence would compare favorably with the skill shown on like work in any section of the world.

"The Lens mines are known as shaft mines. That is, shafts have to be sunk to the coal veins lying 500, 1,000 and 1,500 feet under the surface of the earth. Now, the earth there is of peculiar formation. For about fifty feet from the surface the ordinary formation obtains. Then there is a measure of white, chalky clay that is sponge-like. That is, it absorbs and holds the water that seeps through from the surface and the neighboring streams, and this forms, at all times, a menace to the mines, where the many miles of tunnels and of workings have to be kept free from water.

So in sink a shaft in this peculiar formation was a most serious undertaking. This meant that each shaft had to be walled up with what we term caissons.

"To get these shafts sunk, engineering genius was called upon to devise a way whereby the water could be retained, or kept out of the shaft while it was in course of construction. French engineers hit upon the idea of freezing the sides of a shaft as it was dug, so that for a distance of fifty to one hundred feet on every side, this spongy, watery mass was frozen solid and kept in that condition until the work of sinking and placing the caisson of steel, or of brick and mortar, was completed. To keep the water back at all times, the use of cylindrical steel caissons, or caissons of brick and mortar, were necessary, so that the developing of a coal mine in that district was much more serious than in the case in this country, where, while we have many shaft mines, the natural conditions are so favorable that few of them have to be caissoned.

"Now when the Germans set about the diabolical work of destruction they knew of this menace to the mines from the strata of sponge, and they placed explosives down these shafts so that they were discharged in those sections where they would do the most damage. By means of these explosives, these caissons were broken through in many places, and the water poured in in the shaft filtered into the mines, eventually filling them up to the surface. And the Germans did not stop here. Every bit of the plant, every bit of machinery above ground was destroyed by means of explosives, as well as every home that had sheltered the 70,000 persons who made up the cities and towns that lived upon the fruits of the coal and steel industry.

"To hinder the Frenchmen in their work of reclaiming these mines, the Germans filled each of the shafts with every kind of debris that was available. Thus, when the Frenchmen began to clear up the properties, following the armistice, it was found that not only had they to pump out hundreds of millions of tons of water, but that they had to remove the debris that had been placed in each shaft. When they tackled this work, which could only be carried on as the water was lowered, they were forced to remove every kind of debris, including the remnants of the machinery that had been destroyed on the surface—mine cars, bodies of mules, horses even soldiers, and so dense and impenetrable were the masses of steel in some of the shafts, that before the pumps could be lowered in some instances, divers had to be sent down to cut with steel saws the mass of steel debris that was blocking the lowering of the pumps."

BEFORE THROWING IT IS WELL TO WARM UP

This May Be Best Done by Two Players Tossing the Ball
Back and Forth.

By CARL L. NICHOLS, Baseball Coach
University of Illinois
Before throwing the ball with any speed the players should always warm up well. This may best be done by two men throwing the ball back and forth between them at first for a short distance and later for a longer distance. Ball players almost always throw too much and too hard in practice. The result is they have dead arms or arms that are permanently injured.

In throwing the ball one should concentrate his attention on the target.
If he has acquired the proper form
in throwing he can center his thought on the spot to which he is throwing.

The overhand throw is most purposeful. It is better than any other method with this in the player can throw more accurately and with greater speed and with less chance of injuring his arm than with the side-arm or underhand throw. In making the overhand throw the ball should be held with the first two fingers and the ball goes over the head. The ball starts behind the head and is brought straight over the shoulder. As the hand and arm are brought forward the left foot is stepped forward. The right foot steps forward when the ball is thrown.

A ball that should be used at first is one which has been thrown a few times. The ball should be thrown a few times
before it is used. It is better to use a ball that has been thrown a few times than to use a new ball. The
ball should be thrown a few times

Knicker Suit Is Handy for All Outdoor Wear

This Norfolk and knicker suit, cut most mannishly, is of leather mixed tweed, with hat to match. Novel golf hose and russet shoes of "maddistrap" cut complete the outfit, as suitable for hiking, as for golf.

New Sports Things Are of Lightweight Wool

Charming sports things are being made up in lightweight wools. Emphasis is put on the use of woolen things for spring. Among the interesting ideas are wools printed in jacquard patterns, suggestive of Egyptian and Hindu inspiration. These, in effect, are not unlike the printed cottons in gay colors which were such a feature last year, and are even more interesting for the coming season. Woolen fabrics printed after this manner are frequently done on white background. Some of them introduce distinctly contrasting tones.

An article on sports clothes is not complete without a reference to cover cloth. It gained some headway last year among the exclusive dressmakers, and this year will see it in full swing as a smart fabric.

Attractive dresses of natural color cashmere cloth woven something like jersey are trimmed with leather, usually in brown tones, and worn with a smart leather hat, a good model being that of colonial shape, with a closely-curved brim forming a visor just over the eyes. This type of hat, when worn low on the head, is extremely coquettish and becoming.

Russet serge and perforated serge are combined in one-piece dresses, the bodice being made of the serge and the skirt of the cloth. A leather hat in a shade to match the skirt completes such a costume.

Leather trimmings are featured on knitted sports suits and dresses. Collars and cuffs of plain or perforated serge, with sometimes an additional trimming of large leather-covered buttons, are used.

Gay Hues Are Featured in Spring Millinery

Already the aliphatic, general character, and the popular materials and trimmings of millinery for the coming summer have been decided, declares a fashion writer in the New York Tribune. Each of the famous modistes has, of course, her own point of view concerning the mode for the new season, although there would seem to be a general agreement that hats, both large and small, should feature rich colorings and for trimmings flowers, lace or ribbons. None of these trimmings is distinctly new, but all are important.

The shapes of hats are so varied that there is no hard-and-fast rule. One can find anything, from the large papillote laden with flowers or fruit to the small toque or the draped turban. There is a rather pronounced tendency for the small, round shape, with a four-inch brim, and medium crown. The brim is slightly rolled up at the front. Such models frequently are made in tulle, with cockades, ribbon.

One prominent milliner makes a feature of hats with straw crowns, having brims of silk, such as crepe de chine or tulle. A lovely picture of white crepe, very large, is made over cotton padding, thus giving a remarkably soft effect. The trimming consists of a bow and streamers of white crepe de chine.

A great host of tulle is in use, particularly the champagne tulle in the brown shades, ranging from yellow to deep reddish brown tints. Greens, too, are extremely smart, the shades most favored being the rosea or cypress greens.

Long Streamers Used on New Facecoverings

Vells are thrown carelessly over the entire hat or draped across the brim only and allowed to hang in long streamers, which fall in some instances below the waist line. A smart note is introduced in millinery by using black veils on brown hats or brown veils on black hats.

The coming and going of the veil in fashion is unexplainable. A reason can be found for most changes in fashions, but the reason for the veil seems to be more or less a whim. There appears to be no reason why it should be dropped by women or as suddenly taken up again.

Smart Serge Frocks

A smart blue serge dress, made on straight lines and with long, tight sleeves, has no trimming but a row of buttons which runs from the collar down to the hem line. These are placed in the back.

BOSTON—The biggest and best reason why I'm glad to get back to America is "bath tubs," said Mrs. Martin Johnson who recently returned to the United States after accompanying her husband on an African expedition. ## SUCCESS SEEN FOR ENDOWMENT FUND OF LEGION

Goal of Movement to Keep Graves Green May Be Reached May 30

MONEY COMES IN RAPIDLY

INDIANAPOLIS Ind., April 18.—Realization of the endowment fund sought by the American Legion to provide for the permanent annual decoration of all graves of American World War dead on foreign soil is nearer.

Announcement by the national treasurer of the Legion that the dully receipts for this fund are amounting to taken as an indication that the attainment of the goal set will be reached by May 30. Each mail that comes to Legion headquarters brings the contributions of former soldiers and Legion posts, clubs and fraternal organizations, and of those who hold dear the cause for which the men sleeping on foreign soil gave their lives.

Hollywood Post of the American Legion, composed of film actors and studio employees contributed a check for $105. The organization of the "Fairy Men and Eight Horrors," of Rochester, N. Y., which won a prize at the annual "mardi gras" of Legion Posts in Rochester sent the reward to the endowment fund for overseas graves immediately. In Keene, N. H., where the Legion post is named after a soldier who has buried overseas, members of the Rotary Club sent a large check with the specific charge that it should be applied for the decoration of the grave of the hero whose name is honored by the legionnaires of that city.

Many of the letters enclosing donations to the fund reveal strong personal sentiment. One who signs herself "A double Gold Star mother," sent a donation expressing her wishes for the success of the fund. Another letter read: "The enclosed check is from an inmate of the state penitentiary who wishes to do his part. Please acknowledge this to the warden of the institution." A former "prisoner," as he described himself in his letter, said: "Here's my iron man for the graves endowment fund. Good luck to a good cause."

Announcement of the cooperation of many of the larger newspapers in the country has been received at Legion headquarters. These newspapers, working through the Legion posts of their cities, expect to aid the fund by appeals to their readers.

IT'S BIG JOB TO FEED NEW YORK

Half Million Farmers Told to Supply Its Needs.

COMES FROM ALL OVER WORLD

Day by day more than half a million farmers tell constantly to keep New York a millions of people fed. Of fresh fruits and vegetables more than 80,000 carloads are received in the city annually, the annual supply of meats to take more than 1,000,000,000 pounds of butter, cheese and poultry, 600,000,000 pounds of eggs, 1,500,000,000 quarts of milk more than 1,400,000,000 quarts. Poured into lower Manhattan, the quantity of farm products that come into New York in a year would feed the entire island district and engulf the tallest building there, writes Frank George, the United States Department of Agriculture in the New York Times.

The food comes from all over the world. Staples include the whole range of products from apples to watermelons. Fruits, fruits and vegetables to stock the shelves of the most exacting gourmet arrive from remote corners of the nation and of foreign countries. Peaches and plums from South Africa, strawberries and raspberries from Florida, melons from South America, tomatoes from Mexico, and even onions from Spain, Egypt and Australia. An international meal that represents the combined result of thousands of years of progressive agricultural science all over the world is laid down on the New Yorkers' table for the eating.

Keeping New York fed is a tremendous job. Last year 57,000 cars of apples, potatoes, cabbage, onions, tomatoes, strawberries, cantaloupes and peaches rolled into New York, in addition to the large supply of products trucked in practically all year round from nearby farms in New Jersey and Long Island, and sold to farmers' markets, the Westchester, Hudson and Dutchess markets. New York received 15 per cent of all carlot shipments of fruits and vegetables for the entire country.

Approximately 29,000 cars of potatoes, onions, cabbage and tomatoes are received for consumption yearly as compared with 29,500 cars of apples, peaches, melons and cantaloupes. Consumption of vegetables in New York comprises 45 per cent of all shipments for the entire United States, and of the four leading delicious fruits about 15 per cent of all shipments.

Potatoes take the lead in volume of any one commodity, receipts averaging 19,000 carloads for a seven-year period. This is about two-thirds of the city's carlot supply of the leading lines of vegetables and only slightly less than the total annual carlot consumption of the four fruits. Receipts of apples are next largest in volume, falling on the average 10,800 cars and comprising about 55 per cent of all cars of the four lines of delicious fruits consumed.

Florida Potatoes and Virginia Cabbage. Yearly receipts of onions are about twice those of cabbage, approximately 4,600 cars of onions entering into consumption as compared with 2,600 cars of cabbage. Receipts of cantaloupes exceed those of peaches by about 150 cars annually. For the seven years the yearly average consumption of peaches was 1,820 cars as compared with 3,980 cars of cantaloupes. Annual receipts of strawberries are about 1,710 cars, and of tomatoes about 3,100 cars. More than 2,750 cars of strawberries arrived in each of the years 1917 and 1918 but decreased production cut down the 1922 supply.

Practically 60 per cent of New York city's carlot supply of bottled apples comes from New York and Virginia, while Washington and Oregon contribute about 17 per cent. The largest apple carloaders are California and Idaho, also fairly heavy contributors to the bottled apple supply. Commercially few bottled apples are received from Maine, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania although these states produce large quantities of apples. Apple receipts both bottled and boxed reach their peak in October, and fall off gradually until June.

Florida leads in the number of cars of early potatoes shipped with a yearly average of 1,100 cars. South Carolina is next, with 975 cars. Second early potatoes come from Virginia and Maryland, and the bulk of the late potatoes from the Maine west-end, New York and New Jersey.

More than half the yearly carlot supply of 60,000 cars of fruits and vegetables is handled at Hudson river piers shuttling to and from the produce district below Canal street, known as Washington market.

The car lot is located at the Jersey freight yard and loaded across the river on flat boats carrying eight or ten loaded cars. At the piers the cars are unloaded directly from the boats and long before sunrise. The produce is quickly unloaded on hand trucks, stacked in rows on the pier and inspected as to sizes and grades.

Apple Cider Inspectors. Prospective buyers appear at an early hour, inspect the commodities and check with the inspectors in trades.

Everywhere throughout these transactions the same is the shape of Department of Agriculture market inspectors and inspectors of Agriculture is watching the deals. Inspecting produce is a thankless job. The 150 buyers as is everybody else shot out all over the country by the department's system of leased telephone wires that can get all the leading produce markets with each other and therefore have a good picture of the country. The news is then relayed by telephone messenger and radio to producers and others at sources of supply and future shipments are regulated to meet the market demand as indicated in the reports.

Government inspection of produce is made upon request to settle disputes arising over quality and condition of shipments, and to ensure the city a supply of wholesome food.

With the possible exception of London, Greater New York is the largest most commanding center of the world.

The contest was won by Miss Anna Soisson, of 201 Cedar avenue, Connellsville. Miss Flora McFarland, whose establishment is located in the Title and Trust Building, and who is agent for the Gage hats in this section, received the following letter announcing the winner:

Flora McFarland,
Title & Trust Building
Connellsville, Pa.

Dear Madam:

The Little Miss Gage coloring contest has been closed, and the judging of the entries completed. In making the awards, the age of the aspiring artists has been taken into account. Included in the 1st of prize winners is the name of Anna Mary Soisson, 201 W. Cedar.

Please convey our congratulations to Miss Soisson.

Yours sincerely,

GAGE BROTHERS & CO

A recent survey by the Department of Agriculture shows that approximately 1,001,513,000 pounds of meat was received in New York last year. This is an average monthly supply of 83,400,000 pounds of which 48,000,000 pounds is beef, 17,151,000 pounds pork, 11,724,000 pounds veal and 10,527,000 pounds lamb and mutton. Beef constitutes 55 per cent of the total supply, pork 18.4 per cent, veal 13.3 per cent and lamb and mutton 13.2 per cent.

More than 18,000 shops retail meat exclusively while some 2,000 stores and delicatessen shops handle meat as a side line. There are also 175 retail market houses in the city which handle meat in connection with other foods.

Fish also plays an important part in the diet of Gotham's millions, nearly 10,000,000 pounds of fish and miscellaneous sea foods being annually eaten.

Live Birds and Poultry Post Eggs. Live poultry supplies aggregate more than 1,300,000 pounds annually, coming principally from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Texas. December and November are the heaviest months of consumption.

Receipts of eggs last year were more than 6,400,000 cases as compared with 6,800,000 cases the preceding year, and with 4,961,044 cases in 1920. Illinois is the leading state contributing eggs, having shipped to New York last year nearly 1,880,000 cases. Iowa came second with 621,000 cases, and Indiana third with 720,000 cases. Eggs are received from more than thirty-four States and Canada. Large quantities are received by parcel post in addition to express shipments. More than 50,000,000 pounds of the city's butter supply comes from Minnesota, making up nearly one-third the total supply of 241,600,000 pounds. Iowa shipped 48,183,000 pounds of butter, 17,151,000 pounds pork, 11,724,000 pounds veal and 10,527,000 pounds lamb and mutton. Wisconsin 12,805,000 pounds and Ohio 10,911,000 pounds. Supplies of butter come from 32 states, Canada, shipped 1,625,000 pounds to New York last year.

Cheese receipts totaled 50,100,000 pounds last year compared with 51,850,000 pounds in 1921, and with 49,882,000 pounds in 1920.

The city's annual supply of milk and cream totals more than 12,000,000 quarts of 40 quarts each, coming principally from nearby producing districts in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Vermont and Ontario, Canada.

To paint a picture of New York's food requirements shows a list of necessities of production, transportation and distribution at its simplest, the necessities of the city and the multitude of other interests directly and indirectly concerned with meeting that demand would require a canvas a mile high and reaching from Battery park to Guyton Duvel.

The average New Yorker may give little thought to the number of sheep grazing on the slopes of the Rockies to the great wheat belt which furnishes him with bread, the cotton belt which is the source of his cotton clothing, or the range country where comes his supply of beef set out there—away from the dinner and sham—nature and her nobility are working tirelessly striving to supply him with food.
